Conroe, Texas – Latin Trans announced today that it has added Banco de Desarrollo Rural, S.A. (Banrural) in Guatemala to its Central American remittance payment network.

“The Central American remittance corridors represent key growth markets for Latin Trans and we welcome the addition of Banrural as we expand our coverage in these markets. While Latin Trans has achieved substantial market share in Mexico, Central America as a sub region represents a significant untapped growth opportunity. We expect to gain significant market share and participate in the evolution of paper based courier remittances to electronic transactions over the next few years”, stated Secure Cash Networks’s CEO, Greg Bloh.

Banrural’s extensive branch network of 240 locations in Guatemala is focused on providing consumer and small business banking services in rural areas.
